Connection Cable: 2 x 2m, 1.0mm² plus screen

Protection screen: Cu - screen

Important:

- The heating mat must not be cut or subjected to strain around the area of the termination.
- The heating mat may only be used embedded and connected to a fixed installation, for example the light switch, but not through a plug and socket.
- The protective screen (copper screen) of the heating mat must be earthed according to local regulations.
- Check the ohmic value of the heating mat before as well as after the installation.
- The heating mat must be connected by an authorised electrician.
- There are special requirements for adhesives used for mirror mounting, please ensure that the adhesive used is appropriate.
- The 'Cold Tails' have a centre core that is called the cold tail conductor. This conductor is surrounded by an earth braid/shield.

1. Measure the mirror and mark the area on the wall.

2. Install a flexible conduit in the wall from the mirror to the nearest connection box.

3. Apply the tile adhesive to the marked area with a toothed spatula. Remember to buy a type of tile adhesive which does not attack the mirror - your local DIY store can help you.

4. Press the mirror heating mat into the tile adhesive - make sure it is even and fixed. Then cover the mat with tile adhesive - make sure the surface is smooth.

6. The mirror can now be mounted either directly in the tile adhesive or with acid free silicon after the tile adhesive has dried. Remember: the tile adhesive must be approved for mirror mounting.

5. Put the cold tails of the heating mat into the flexible conduit and push it up into the connection box.

7. To improve the final look, place tiles next to the mirror in line with it.
